Scandal-Rocked State Assembly 2 Days From Adjournment Deadline

As it is customary in late June of odd-numbered years, Quad-Cities are keeping a wary eye on fast-paced legislative activity in Springfield. As the Illinois General Assembly moves toward adjournment Wednesday night.

Rocked by payol, allegations and still an odd mix of House and Senate reapportionment, the legislature has yet to decide numerous controversial issues as well as the question of how much and what type of new taxation is needed to meet spiraling expenditures.

In an unusual Sunday meeting, the Senate passed, 334 non-controversial bills, leaving 259 other measures for consideration this week.

Bills passed by the Senate yesterday included:

Raising supreme court judges' annual pay from $33,000 to $37,500 (downstate appellate judges were left at $25,000).

Authorizing counties to own and operate parks.

Stipulating mandatory penalties for armed crimes.

Outlawing use of state autos for personal business.

Appropriating $1 million for bonuses to Illinois veterans of Vietnam.

Increasing penalties for state narcotics law violations.

And requiring revocation of driving licenses for 30 days.

Three Crashes Account For 11 Injuries; Girl, 3, Boy, 7, Hit by Cars

Injuries were suffered by 18 persons in ten of 30 traffic crashes reported in and near the Quad-Cities since Thursday afternoon.

In three of the accidents, 11 personal injuries, mostly minor, were recorded—including five persons in a two-car crash near O'Hare street and Madison avenue, and two motorcycles involved in a two-car accident at O'Hare street and Madison avenue.

Five persons were injured about 5 p.m. Thursday in a two-car crash on Route 3 at the A. O. Smith Corp. plant. Police said a southbound car driven by Barry Thompson, 16, of 4170 Breckendrick lane, crashed into the rear of an auto driven by Vernon R. H. Four persons received minor injuries in a two-car accident at Third street and Madison avenue, Madison, at 12:30 p.m. Sunday. Police said the mishap occurred when a southbound car driven by Jorgen Sindro, 39, of Hazelwood, Mo., stopped for a traffic signal at Third street, was struck by a car driven by Marie Baugh, 40, East St. Louis.

Plan Revised For Air Strip Near Pontoon Beach

Promoter Envisions Huge Industrial Plants North, East of Airport

Plans for construction of a $1,000,000 airport with a 3700-foot landing strip, 100 light planes, a terminal building, hangars and a motel with a restaurant and swimming pool were revised Thursday evening when Thomas Foster, president of Foster Aviation, Ltd., discussed the proposed venture with the Pontoon Beach village board of trustees.

The proposed site is 2 1/2 miles from the village area on a 162-acre tract located between Interstate 270 and Highways 157 and 111.

Objections to the establishment of an airport in the vicinity were sought late last year from surrounding communities and area agencies by the Federal Aviation Agency, with the Pontoon Beach village board planning the project.

Foster said 40 letters seeking objections were mailed by the FAA. He added that the procedure is a requirement of federal and state authorities.

Also present at Thursday night's meeting, which was combined with the board's regular session, were Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce President Charles Mathias of the Illinois Port-Cor, and Howard Kaseberg, local businessman-farmer and Chamber of Commerce president, who also is a member of the Madison county zoning appeals board. Allen Foster, president of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission; National Association of Airport Operators; and a number of area residents.

Foster and a business associate, Henry Mohr, who owns property in the Quad-City area, told the trustees that plans for the airport had been approved by the federal authorities. He added that should the village trustees maintain their objection, they would have to go to a public hearing.

After study by Board

Board President Thomas Stafoff said the matter will be further discussed in committee before a decision is reached.

Foster told the board that he believes a number of misconceptions exist about the project. He said he was attracted to the area because of its potential for industrial development in the Quad-Cities and especially the area near Mitchell.

He said there has been in the aviation business for 17 years and presently operates a rental and flight school. He said he is old National Guard building at Lambert Field, St. Louis, and is planning to build a new service, ambulance and aircraft and helicopter sales department to be included in overall operation of the proposed airport.

Architect's sketches of an expressway, a 100-ft. motel, swimming pool and restaurant area were displayed by Foster, who explained that the facilities would be erected on the northern portion of the land between Interstate 270 and Highway 157. A shuttle service from the motel to the landing field would be provided for convenience, he related.

State School Aid

The Senate advanced the final passage of a House bill increasing the state school aid formula from $22.2 a pupil to $23.7 a pupil. The new figure from $22.2 to $23.4.

Gov. Kerner yesterday signed the bill, which would increase the state's annual contribution to the state school fund from $600,000 to $660,000.

The bill also would increase the state's contribution to the state school fund from $15,000 for the previous year to $15,000 for the previous year. The bill also would increase the state's contribution to the state school fund from $15,000 for the previous year to $15,000 for the previous year.

'Loss Control' Alternative to Costly Insurance

(Third of a series)

"Loss Control" is a phrase relatively unfamiliar to families in the Quad-Cities and other communities.

But it has been encountered frequently by the Press-Record in its study of national and regional home insurance trends that have resulted in over a dozen companies withdrawing from the Quad-Cities area.

And the term may become increasingly large in the future when even insurance is the topic.

Loss control is related to another fairly new phrase, "quality ownership." The latter is defined as all of the elements of a good insurance risk, satisfactory credit rating, favorable loss history, honesty, prudence and good moral character.

Just as lending money to strangers without collateral is a risky business, insurance companies have found that policyholders are an extra risk, particularly in such multi-peril coverage as the homeowner policy. Because one of the requirements for quality ownership is a favorable loss history, loss control cannot be ignored.

Rates Related to Losses

A leading insurance authority has explained it as follows: Losses sustained by commercial and industrial property owners are of genuine interest to them; they know the loss factor will sooner or later have a bearing on their insurance costs.

Loss control is therefore recognized as a sound principle designed to reduce losses.

Good insurers are interested in reducing or eliminating losses resulting from carelessness, or other losses which are inevitable and frequent due to operations generally.

Homeowners are no different. They are interested in reducing their insurance costs.

Loss control for habitation risk must be encouraged, and homeowners seeing the need to carry their own risks on losses and frequent due to operations generally.

Buford and a St. Louis woman were seated in the auto near a canal intersection of Highway 111 when two men approached the car. One of the men, a Negro, drew a blue steel revolver and fired the bullet through the fleshy part of the hand. The pair then dragged him to the ground.

After being rushed by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, he was held for X-rays and observation.

It was learned that an Illinois Termini engine sustained damage when it rounded a curve and struck the rear of a line of railroad cars, temporarily halting the train.

pressed interest in the proposed field.

"Golden Mile"
Later, he told a Press-Record reporter that the frontage road area on the bypass presents an ideal location for a "golden mile" of motels and other service facilities, which he said would provide an increase in employment and business opportunities for the area.

In replying to questions on safety hazards, Foster said the landing and takeoff patterns would be from a north-south direction only and at no time would an aircraft approach the field over Pontoon Beach. He added that all FAA regulations have been met in planning the field with the long strip terminating more than 1000 feet from the perimeter of the property, creating a buffer zone.

Incidents where student pilots from Lakeside Airport have misused private property have been forced to land on private property were cited by Kaseberg, who said this had occurred on several occasions on his farm. He added that considerable damage had been done to apple trees and took about the property and by trucks which had to remove the aircraft.

No Practical Flights
Foster replied this type of incident was unusual in a flying instruction program. He said that while he planned to include student training in his operation, practice flights would be limited to an air strip currently used near St. Charles, Mo., which he said has excellent landing facilities.

With flying instruction programs costing about $600 per pupil, he said, it proves prohibitive to all but serious aviation students. The majority of his student-trainees, he added, are business people who plan to fly their own planes in connection with their work.

Foster elaborated on various safety precautions and suggested that the village trustee confer with the FAA on the accident ratio involving private planes, which he said, is far less than the low accident figure held by commercial airlines. At present time, Foster said, there are approximately 136,000 private aircraft in operation in the U.S. compared to 2800 commercial planes.

He said the largest plane expected to use the facility would be his twin-engine Beechcraft, or Cessna 310's. When asked if the proposed airport eventually could be turned into a large commercial operation, the trustee said this was doubtful, but any decision would rest entirely with surrounding communities. He personally does not plan to extend his operations into this field, he added.

Township Auditor Polley questioned the feasibility of using the land for an airport and possible industry sites when residential space is expected to be at a premium in a few years. He added that an anticipated 20,000 student body within ten years at the SWU campus will necessitate additional homes.

Foster said his initial proposal had included an adjacent housing development, with concrete runways extending to individual homes. However, it had been turned down by the county zoning board as the area was zoned for industrial or commercial sites. He explained that operations of this type have proven successful on the west coast and at three air-strip developments in the Chicago area.

If the project is approved, Foster said, construction would get under way in early spring. Heavy traffic would include about 30 aircraft based at the field with a ten-per-cent growth per year for about five years when it is expected to level off.

MORE ABOUT 'Loss Control'

They cannot afford to sustain. Affection of Risks Commercial and industrial accounts are the subjects of insurance analyses and surveys conducted with physical inspection. These analyses are designed to ferret out conditions which could cause losses if not corrected. The Press-Record was told.

The day may be far off when both indoors and outdoors, all will be standard procedure, it was predicted.

The construction, age, condition, desirability, location and market value or replacement value of a dwelling can be ascertained.

"Needed repairs can be noted. Conditions of heating, plumbing and electrical equipment can be judged.

"These are all things a prudent buyer would check if he were buying a home, because he is not interested in buying an undue number of unusual maintenance costs.

It is also saying that no insurance company wants to pick up these conditions, which could result in losses under the form policies—conditions which are, in effect, maintenance coverage.

"If a truly hazardous condition is noted, it should be possible to secure the owner's assistance in correcting the situation, in order to avoid a catastrophe loss either to property or life.

"Once a physical evaluation of the property and its location is made, it is easier to determine whether the risk should be written on the basis of today's actual cash value or on a replacement cost basis.

"Periodic checks are made on property values for insurance purposes in connection with commercial risks. The same should be true for habitations risks."

Role of Community
Individual property owners and their insurance agents are not the only persons interested in the condition of their homes, of course. Society itself has a right, and duty, to set minimum standards.

Kent H. Parker, general manager of the Fire Insurance Research and Actuarial Association, told state insurance commissioners Thursday that the poor habitational risk of substandard dwelling includes such hazards as: poor maintenance, unsatisfactory standards of housekeeping, unsafe heating devices and fires or electrical wiring, various facilities through conversion to multiple-family use.

"State and municipal governments have the major responsibility to improve conditions through better enforcement of building codes and other health and safety ordinances."

"To the extent that insurance companies are consistently realized by the company and its retailers, there is every reason to believe that a change is inevitable. The price will go up, the product or service will be modified to suit the needs of the market, or the item will be dropped. Insurance is no exception."

"Selection is obviously not confined to consumers alone. Business generally seeks the best market for its products or services. Experienced salesmen learn to select the best prospects for their products or services."

"No one likes to be the loser in any transaction, whether the interest be that of customer, salesman or company. The ideal situation is one of reasonable profit or benefit to all interested parties."

Intense Competition
"Everyone recognizes that the 'ideal' is much affected by competition, and that the profit to each interest inevitably rises or falls as a result of competition."

"When excesses occur, in the form of profit or loss for any one interest, it is again inevitable that adjustments will occur. There seems to be a natural law that things refuse to be mismanaged for long."

"Much has been said and written about the current problems in habitational insurance. It seems pointless to accuse companies, agents or policyholders, for all are currently in the swim together as a natural result of an intensely competitive atmosphere."

"Let's recognize that the building is on fire due to natural causes, and then concentrate on the means of 'extinguishing the blaze' and 'restoring the property to good order."

may be involved, it also seems desirable that means be provided through the use of public standards of safety.

"A number of the rating organizations have adopted a system of charges for sub-standard conditions. While this development is still somewhat new, and there has not been opportunity to evaluate its results, the application of sub-standard condition charges may serve to assist placement of some below-average dwellings."

Reason for Selectivity
Another authority, referred to earlier in this article in the discussion of less control and quality ownership, defends the tendency of insurance to gravitate toward good risks with poor risks eventually finding it difficult or impossible to obtain coverage at low cost.

"We all know when we make a purchase that part of the purchase price represents a profit for both the company and its sales outlet."

"We understand that unless a reasonable profit is consistently realized by the company and its retailers, there is every reason to believe that a change is inevitable. The price will go up, the product or service will be modified to suit the needs of the market, or the item will be dropped. Insurance is no exception."

Stock Car and Motorcycle Racers Hurt in Mishaps

Two local race drivers, who were injured Saturday while competing at different tracks, were treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Kept for observation was William Laycock, 21, of 2513 Sheridan avenue, who incurred an injury to the left leg in a stock car race. He was first released late Saturday after first treatment, but was admitted when he returned to the hospital at 1 a.m. yesterday and complained of numbness in the left arm and dizziness.

TOWN BOARD SADDLING PUBLIC WITH BIG DIRT

To the Editor:

Just a few comments on the passage of the Namekowi Township sewer bond ordinance:

During the late 6, 1965, town election, later held in the fall, the literature was passed out in various areas by an election worker in a blue Plymouth which was literally plastered with Namekowi Improvement Party election signs. Township officials are members of this party.

Among other questionable things in this pamphlet, these statements were used:

"1. Namekowi is only making a study for a sewer system."

"2. Namekowi township has not established a definite cost for the sewer system as yet."

"3. There has not been one recent election in township, money spent for sewers."

"4. The people will decide whether or not Namekowi township will have a sewer system, not the township auditor."

Anyone who has read last week's township meeting when the town board passed the sewer bond ordinance, knows the pleas from many of those attending for a better and cheaper system now known as the township board operation.

Harry Briggs' opening statement was: "This ordinance is going to be passed and I want to tell you what you people have to say."

Do we have a town board

Township Residents Must Decide Whether To Seek Sewer Election

Namekowi town board adoption of a $1,000,000 sewer bond issue ordinance despite strong protests by most of the citizens present leaves it squarely up to township residents to accept the plan as proposed or to sign petitions calling an election on the 40-year program.

Allowing the ordinance to go into effect automatically would constitute public acquiescence to installation of sanitary sewers in several residential areas, with lines running across the township to Horseshoe Lake, where treatment plants would be constructed and operated. Tap-on fee would be $100, not counting actual sewerage costs, and the monthly charge would be $4.66 initially, subject to increase by later board action.

Factors which could prompt public insistence on a referendum include the absence of competition in the bond sale, and doubt that the plan supported by the town board is the most efficient and economical way to provide sewer service. All parties agree that the method to be used involves the greatest cost to property owners, and there are other disturbing indications that economy is not being accorded high priority.

It is fitting that the decision rests with present Namekowi township residents, each of whom has them various neighborhoods eventually become a part of Madison, Granite City or some other municipality, the sewer charges would be levied until the year 2005 against the particular parcels of property; this would be unalterable once the ordinance became effective.

Expanded Services, Higher Costs

When the Granite City mayor salary was set at $10,500, with a $1,500 yearly expense account, it was not possible at that time to determine the exact expense level.

The mayor office has since been placed on a full-time basis, with the chief executive of the city devoting his entire time to his duties and other matters directly affecting the municipal government. Auto expenses alone account for most of the $125 monthly allowance.

Provision of an auto to underscore the full-time nature of the position would be a worthwhile investment, producing both tangible and intangible profits in the form of faster and better handling of city business.

This would free more of the expense allowance for its intended purpose. And since only specific costs are being reimbursed, there would be no problem of waste or duplication.

Because furnishing of a car would set a precedent for not only the current officeholder but future mayors, it would need to be established on types of usage and on liability.

SIDELIGHTS from SPRINGFIELD

By Sen. PAUL SIMON

EVALUATION OF 1965 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONS.

To the credit of this legislative session is perhaps a good story to try to evaluate the successes and strengths of the current legislative session.

As this is being written, much progress has been made, as in the final days of almost all sessions. We appear to be drifting toward a final agreement on reorganization, but the whole thing could easily blow up and stay unresolved. You probably know the answer as you read this.

If reorganization does blow up, this certainly could go down as our number one failure.

Really basic revenue reform has again been faced up to. Until Illinois adopts a small state income tax of one or two percent, and with it a substantial reduction in the property tax and personal property tax, our revenue structure will continue to be loaded with inequity.

Until that time, patch-work will continue, and the problems will grow, and the demands on the legislature will mount.

Anti-Crime Bills Passed.

To the credit of this session it must be said that it was the cleanest in moral tone of any session in decades. As a result, anti-crime bills were passed which in past sessions have been ignored.

For the first time in many years, serious discussion was given to some basic reforms. One of the major reforms, the conflict of interest laws. Unfortunately, there has been much talk about this, but no action on this latter type of measure.

A two-year study of legislative procedure was approved. This study should result in some major improvements in lawmaking in Illinois.

The Large New Class of "Blue Ribbon" Legislation.

The large new class of "blue ribbon" legislation in the House resulted in some new faces and some fresh ideas. Despite a host of published talk about "faded blue ribbons," I believe their record was generally a good one, and that holds for both Democrats and Republicans. There were some outstanding exceptions, of course.

The session was a hard-working one, with longer hours and more days, caused in part by more problems.

The session was a hard-working one, with longer hours and more days, caused in part by more problems.

Public Watchdog Minor Issues.

It was a typical session in that public interest tended to be centered on issues of relatively little importance.

One of the three issues on which I received heavy mail, for example, was whether the state should fund the education of the purple martin. I appreciated that and those opinions would stand up in any court.

After checking the laws I notified Mayor Partney of my findings; there was no maneuver to embarrass him or his administration.

I feel if you are going to give away $20,000, at least give it away.

I feel after serving some 22 years I should know a little about legal and illegal money.

Another Survey Reveals Fuzzy Image Of American Way Of Life

Another survey has been completed that—if accurate—should be enough to make Quad-Cityans "lightning mad." Perhaps any ire that is aroused can be channeled constructively into family discussions dealing with, for want of a better label, the "American way of life" and why it should be preserved.

A recent study of opinions held by U. S. high school and college students produced these findings:

Seventy-one per cent of those interviewed would deny an accused person the right to confront his accuser, and 26% would permit search and seizure without consent. Forty-one per cent said up to township residents to accept the plan as proposed or to sign petitions calling an election on the 40-year program.

Eighty-four per cent denied that patriotism is vital and that it plays an important role in the lives of Americans. Sixty-three per cent said the government has the responsibility to provide jobs, and 34% would abridge the right of free speech. Fifty-six per cent voted for strict regulation of all business by government and 53% favored government ownership of banks, railroads and steel companies.

Quad-City discussions often reflect concern over whether the younger generation is receiving intact cultural heritage built up with such foresight and sacrifice during the past two centuries. There are such questions as "Why aren't schools and colleges doing a better job of conveying to students an understanding of and respect for the free enterprise system?" and "Why do they produce so many graduates who are convinced that government can do things more efficiently than private business?"

Such trends are not easily reversed. But it is vitally important that love of country be sustained—with accompanying support for the things that have produced a free and wholesome society.

Each parent, each American owes it to succeeding generations to do all he can to pass along the torch of freedom, undimmed by time and fleeing memory.

Illinois Still Lacks Law On Drunken Driver Tests

Enactment in Missouri of a statewide law authorizing chemical testing of suspected drunken drivers points up a deficiency in Illinois that is not likely to be remedied in the final days of the 1965 legislative session.

The Illinois General Assembly ought to put the matter near the top of its 1967 agenda. Until it takes affirmative action, this state will lack enforcement "teeth" in its ban on intoxicated motorists—and pedestrians and other drivers will have to face needless extra hazards.

Timely, Thorough Discussion

The winter discussion by the Madison County Bar Association at the 1965 Illinois State Bar Association convention was timely in view of current winter legislation in the state legislature.

The insight and research evident in the debate were similar to the "Free Press-Fair Trial" debate, held in 1964, which won for the county association a first-place plaque in state merit award judging.

Anyone who always feels sorry for himself should be.

The people of Granite City are being told that the long talk from the land of Egypt, ran into many difficulties.

Colorful Costumes, Singing, Dancing at Park Program

Colorful costumes of Mexico, Hungary and England brought applause from more than 600 persons who gathered at Wilson Park Thursday evening for the season's second Music Under the Stars program that featured "International Night."

Director Warren Simpkins said the next program will be at 8 p.m. on July 8 and will be performed by all vocal groups of the summer activity sponsored by the Granite City Park district.

Thursday night's program was opened by youngsters of the Mexican Honorary Commission who danced and sang. Mrs. Mary Castillo Scanlan, soprano, sang the National Anthem of Mexico and several other selections and also served as mistress of ceremonies for that portion of International Night.

Little Steve Ortiz, Jr., and Teresa Alvarado performed the Hat Dance, and other youngsters dancing were Juan Jose Ortiz

GC Council Budget Battle Expected This Evening

The annual battle of the budget is expected to start this evening at Granite City's 8 o'clock council session, as the present skeleton listing of departmental expenditures has not yet been subject to full council discussion.

The tentative appropriation has been in the hands of the aldermen for over a week, but no one has yet had a chance to air his views or submit pet projects.

Mayor Partney commented there will be considerable business left over from last week's session that was supplied to have been taken up during an adjourned meeting last Tuesday, but he plans to find time for the aldermen to get to the budget.

Last Tuesday's adjourned meeting failed to materialize the budget, which totals $1,726,940, compared to a $1,925,714 budget last year, does not include any anticipated pay increases for the city's 117 employees.

Mayor's Views on Pay Hikes

The mayor said he favors a cost-of-living pay increase for the employees and possibly merit raises. The city's elected officials were given pay increases at the start of new terms in May.

The Personnel committee headed by Alderman Thompson has not yet reported on its agreement and wage talks with unions representing employees.

Other changes in the budget also are expected. The fire department is requesting six additional firemen to put its strength equal to the police department's 41 men, and it has been recommended by the mayor that Secretary be hired for the police department to relieve an officer of record-keeping duties and put him on a boat.

Other council business carried over from last week are the proposed ordinance to prohibit towing of groups of three or more at drive-ins, to ban ice cream vending trucks and to prohibit the raising of chickens or other farm animals in the older sections of the city. The new subdivisions have such restrictions.

Double reports are expected from at least seven council members, since only five chairmen had time last Monday night to make presentations to the council.

Officials Study Next Step In Rail Assessment Battle

Opinions delivered Thursday by the Illinois Supreme Court in the long ematted railroad assessment cases are being studied today by State Atty. Joseph B. Starnes and Assistant State Atty. Burton C. Bernard to determine the next course of action.

The two officials expect to decide early this week which of two alternatives will be followed: (1) filing of a motion for a rehearing before the Illinois Supreme Court, or (2) direct appeal of the Illinois court decision to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The state Supreme Court reversed the Madison county circuit court decision handed down last August by Circuit Judge James O. Monroe in which 13 railroads involved in the assessment battle would have to pay approximately $2,000,000 in taxes being held in escrow.

Reversal of that decision, if upheld, would mean loss of the $2,000,000 by Madison county county taxing districts to which the funds would have been distributed.

Six Years Involved
The railroad assessment fight that was waged in the court for more than two years involved railroad tax assessments for a six-year period from 1957 through 1962 and was based on allegations by the railroads that they had been assessed at 100% of full cash value while other property in Madison county had been assessed at 55% and 100% ratios.

County attorneys argued that this was not the case and produced volumes of documentary evidence to substantiate the contention that the Illinois Department of Revenue, which assesses all rail properties, used judgment factors to bring railroad assessments in line with local valuations.

After a series of hearings that included deposition trips to Chicago and Springfield early last year, the case was scheduled in July 1964 and Judge Monroe handed down his decision. He ruled that the railroads were not assessed at 100%, but rather between 38% and 85%, depending on the particular year involved. He also found that the level of assessments determined by local boards was slightly above 50%.

Judge Monroe's ruling fixed various amounts of tax distributions of the escrow fund for each railroad for each year.

12 Lines Appeal
An appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court was taken by 12 of the 13 railroads involved in the 52 separate decisions. The Missouri and Illinois Bridge and Bolt Line did not participate in the appeal because of the small amount of tax involved in its case.

The circuit court decision as received as an important victory for Madison county taxing districts that had a stake in the $2,000,000 escrow fund. The lion's share of the money would go to school districts in the county.

Bernard, who handled the tax fight in the courts for the county, said today that it was necessary to study the opinions to determine the basis upon which the Supreme Court reversed the circuit court findings before a decision is reached on what further steps should be taken.

Actually, Bernard said, "there are only two alternatives left open to us. One is to file a petition for a rehearing before the Illinois Supreme Court and the other is to appeal directly to the U. S. Supreme Court. What we do will depend upon our study of the opinions in the cases."

Railroads involved in the long pending litigation included the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Chicago and Northwestern, Illinois Central, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Gulf, Mobile and Ohio, Wabash, the Norfolk & Western, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Nickel Plate, Terminal Railroad Association, Illinois Terminal, Alton & Southern and the Missouri-Illinois Bridge and Bolt.

Hearing Set On Request
For Special Use Permit
The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a hearing at 10:35 a.m. Tuesday, July 13 on a petition to permit operation of a beauty shop at 438 Maryville road.

The on-site hearing will be held on the petition of Donald L. and Myrtle L. Brown, owners of the property. The petition asks issuance of a special use permit. The area now is zoned as one-family residential property.

GC Woman Fined $415, Gets Jail Term on 5 Charges

A Granite City woman who was injured in an accident when her auto crashed into a parked auto, then fled the scene to strike a highway marker a short distance away, was fined $415 Saturday and sentenced to a jail term of 120 days on five charges filed by state and Belleville police.

The woman is Mrs. Delores Graham, 25, who gave addresses in the 2201 block of Edwards street and the 2400 block of Delmar avenue. The fine and jail sentence was assessed by Belleville Magistrate George H. Sanson. Mrs. Graham was charged with driving while drinking, destruction of state property, driving without a driver's license, improper lane usage and disorderly conduct.

The disorderly conduct charge grew out of an altercation in Sanson's office following her arrest. The jail sentence is to be served in the St. Clair county jail at Belleville.

State police said the accident in which Mrs. Graham was involved occurred at 6:35 p.m. Friday when her car struck an auto driven by John Stark, 55, of Collinsville, at the intersection of State Aid Route 30 and Route 137, north of Caseyville. Stark had stopped his car to make a turn when Mrs. Graham's auto sideswiped his and continued down the highway until it struck a traffic marker and ran off the highway. She was treated for mouth injuries at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Belleville where state troopers said she also created a disturbance and became abusive to police and nurses.

Motorist Charged

Dorothy Marsalis, 1803 Collinsville avenue, Madison was charged with careless driving at 2nd street and Madison avenue at noon Saturday. A hearing was set for July 9.

Sonic Booms May Hit Area July 1-Sept. 30

(Special From Washington) Residents of the Quad-City area are being warned that they may experience some supersonic "booms" from July 1 through Sept. 30 from Strategic Air Command B-58 Hustler Bombers that have been assigned to fly along two 40-mile corridors that cross the St. Louis area.

Announcement of the two-day flights was made Friday by the office of Congressman Melvin Price, Democrat of East St. Louis. The first corridor starts at a point near Winterset, Iowa, and ends near Christopher, Ill. The other starts east of Little Rock, Ark., near Hazen and ends about miles south of Springfield, Ill. Flights along these routes may occur daily, but normally will not be scheduled between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. The maximum of two runs daily will be flown over St. Louis. The planes will fly at supersonic speeds of 1300 miles per hour at altitudes above 35,000 feet. Because of the high altitude, Cong. Price's office said, any sonic booms experienced should be of a weak nature.
